Your rights

When it comes to your health information, you have certain rights.

This section explains your rights and some of our responsibilities to help you.

Get a copy of your health and claims records.	• You can ask to see or get a copy of your health and claims records and other health information we have about you. Ask us how to do this. • We will provide a copy or a summary of your health and claims records, usually within 30 days of your request. We may charge a reasonable, cost-based fee.
Ask us to correct health and claims records.	• You can ask us to correct your health and claims records if you think they are incorrect or incomplete. • Ask us how to do this. • We may say “no” to your request, but we’ll tell you why in writing within 60 days.
Request confidential communications.	• You can ask us to contact you in a specific way (for example, a home or office phone) or to send mail to a different address. • We will consider all reasonable requests, and we must say “yes” if you tell us you would be in danger if we do not.
Ask us to limit what we use or share.	• You can ask us not to use or share certain health information for treatment, payment, or our operations. • We are not required to agree to your request, and we may say “no” if it would affect your care.
Get a list of those with whom we’ve shared information.	• You can ask for a list (an accounting) of the times we’ve shared your health information for six years prior to the date you ask, whom we shared it with, and why. • We will include all the disclosures except for those about treatment, payment, and health care operations, and certain other disclosures (such as any you asked us to make). We’ll provide one accounting a year at no cost to you but will charge a reasonable, cost-based fee if you ask for another one within 12 months.
Get a copy of this privacy notice.	• You can ask for a paper copy of this notice at any time, even if you have agreed to receive the notice electronically. We will provide you with a paper copy promptly.
Choose someone to act for you.	• If you have given someone medical power of attorney or if someone is your legal guardian, that person can exercise your rights and make choices about your health information. • We will make sure the person has this authority and can act for you before we take any action.
File a complaint if you feel your rights have been violated.	• You can complain if you feel we have violated your rights. To do so, contact us at 1-833-282-2252 (TTY 711). • You can also file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office for Civil Rights by sending a letter to 200 Independence Avenue, S.W., Washington, DC 20201; calling 1-877-696-6775; or visiting https://www.hhs.gov/hipaa/filing-a-complaint/index.html. • We will not retaliate against you for filing a complaint.

Your choices

For certain health information, you can tell us your choices about what we share.

If you have a clear preference for how we share your information in the situations described below, talk to us. Tell us what you want us to do, and we will follow your instructions.

In these cases, you have both the right and choice to tell us to:	• Share information with your family, close friends, or others involved in payment for your care. • Share information in a disaster-relief situation. • Share information with you through mobile and digital technologies (such as sending information to your email address or to your cell phone by text message or through a mobile app) If you are not able to tell us your preference, for example, if you are unconscious, we may go ahead and share your information with others (such as with your family or a disaster relief organization) if we believe it is in your best interest. We may also share your information when needed to lessen a serious and imminent threat to health or safety. We will not use mobile and digital technologies to send you health information unless you agree to let us do so. The use of mobile and digital technologies (such as text message, email, or mobile app) has a number of risks that you should consider. Text messages and emails may be read by a third party if your mobile or digital device is stolen, hacked, or unsecured. Message and data rates may apply.
In these cases, we never share your information unless you give us written permission:	• Marketing purposes • Selling your information for marketing purposes

Our uses and disclosures

How do we typically use or share your health information?

We typically use or share your health information in the following ways:

To help manage the health care treatment you receive	We can use your health information and share it with professionals who are treating you.	Example: A doctor sends us information about your diagnosis and treatment plan so we can arrange additional services.
Health care operations	We can use and disclose your information to run our organization and contact you when necessary. We are not allowed to use genetic information to decide whether we will give you coverage and the price of that coverage.	Example: We use health information about you to develop better services for you.
To pay for your health services	We can use and disclose your health information as we pay for your health services.	Example: We share information about you to coordinate payment for your health services.
To coordinate your care among various health care providers	Our contracts with various programs require that we participate in certain electronic health information networks (HINs) and/or health information exchanges (HIEs) so that we are able to more efficiently coordinate the care you are receiving from various health care providers. If you are enrolled or enrolling in a government-sponsored program, such as Medicaid or Medicare, please review the information provided to you by that program to determine your rights with respect to participating in an HIN or HIE.	Example: We share health information through an HIN or HIE to provide timely information to providers rendering services to you.

How else can we use or share your health information? We are allowed or required to share your information in other ways — usually in ways that contribute to the public good, such as public health and research. We have to meet many conditions in the law before we can share your information for these purposes. For more information, see <https://www.hhs.gov/hipaa/for-individuals/guidance-materials-for-consumers/index.html>.

To help with public health and safety issues	We can share health information about you for certain situations such as: • Preventing disease • Helping with product recalls • Reporting adverse reactions to medications • Reporting suspected abuse, neglect, or domestic violence • Preventing or reducing a serious threat to anyone’s health or safety
To do research	• We can use or share your information for health research.
To comply with the law	• We will share information about you if state or federal laws require it in order to document that we’re complying with state and federal privacy law.
To respond to organ and tissue donation requests and work with a medical examiner or funeral director	• We can share health information about you with organ procurement organizations. • We can share health information with a coroner, medical examiner, or funeral director when an individual dies.
To address workers’ compensation, law enforcement, and other government requests	We can use or share health information about you: • For workers’ compensation claims • For law enforcement purposes or with a law enforcement official • With health oversight agencies for activities authorized by law • For special government functions, such as military, national security, and presidential protective services
To respond to lawsuits and legal actions	• We can share health information about you in response to a court or administrative order, or in response to a subpoena.
Additional restrictions on use and disclosure	• Certain federal and state laws may require greater privacy protections. Where applicable, we will follow more stringent federal and state privacy laws that relate to uses and disclosures of health information concerning HIV/AIDS, cancer, mental health, alcohol and/or substance use, genetic testing, sexually transmitted diseases, and reproductive health.

Our responsibilities

AmeriHealth Caritas Next takes our members' right to privacy seriously. To provide you with your benefits, AmeriHealth Caritas Next creates and/or receives personal information about your health. This information comes from you, your physicians, hospitals, and other health care services providers. This information, called protected health information (PHI), can be oral, written, or electronic.

- We are required by law to maintain the privacy and security of your PHI.
- Our staff is trained to adhere to all of our company privacy and security processes.
- Our business associates are also required to follow documented privacy and security processes.
- We are required by law to ensure that third parties who assist with your treatment, our payment of claims, or health care operations maintain the privacy and security of your PHI in the same way that we protect your information.
- We are also required by law to ensure that third parties who assist us with treatment, payment, and operations abide by the instructions outlined in our Business Associate Agreement.
- We will let you know promptly if a breach occurs that may have compromised the privacy or security of your information.
- We must follow the duties and privacy practices described in this notice and give you a copy of it.
- We will not use or share your information other than as described here unless you tell us we can in writing. If you tell us we can, you may change your mind at any time. Let us know in writing if you change your mind.
